$126,000 project approved

Waveland Library building to expand

By WAYNE DUCOME JR.
Construction which will renovate and almost double the size of the Waveland Library is expected to begin late this spring.

City and county officials gathered at a Wednesday night Waveland Board of Aldermen meeting to sign a loan agreement to undertake the $126,000 project.

The construction work is funded with grants of $35,000 from the Mississippi Library Commission, $35,000 from Waveland, $10,000 from the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, $15,000 from the County Library System Board of Trustees, and $3,000 from American Legion Post No. 77 of Waveland.

The existing 1,700-square-foot building will be expanded 1,700 square feet with a wing which will contain a lobby, circulation desk, area, radio, closed entrance, meeting room and work room, and rest rooms and storage area.

EAST ELEVATION

Barbara Rappold, city clerk and an alderman, Friday speculated construction would begin in late April or early May.

Wood explained that at any given time there would be the same number of people living at Fair Oaks on a time-sharing basis as there would be if the units were sold as conventional condominiums.

Wood stated, "If we would sell these as time-sharing units or condominiums, this would diminish the value of surrounding property."

TIME-SHARING CONDOS—Discussions of proposed time-sharing condominium development planned for construction on Allen Drive in Waveland with the Waveland Board of Aldermen Wednesday night are being led by Phillip Shaw, left, project architect and Chris Wood, attorney for Gulfport and representing R&H Properties of New Orleans. coming and going all the time. Time-sharing is 100 percent acceptable in US-90," he reported.
Wood said, "We don't want a project where we're fighting the neighbors and the city."
The attorney asked if conventional condominiums would be acceptable, but Long offered no discernible answer.
But Lucien Gex, city judge and attorney, noted that areas zoned R-3 permit condominiums or apartments.
In reference to Beach Boulevard, the board received a letter from John R. Tabb, State Highway Department director, regarding the city this year is eligible to receive $16,000 in Federal Aid Urban Funds.
Long said the majority of the funds would be utilized to assist the county in repaving Beach Boulevard with remaining monies also be used for upgrading other streets.

LIBRARY AGREEMENT—Participating in the signing of an agreement at a Waveland Board of Aldermen meeting Wednesday night in which the city, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, County Library System Board of Trustees, American Legion Post No. 77 and the Mississippi Library Commission will jointly fund a $125,000 Waveland Library ex-

Excessive employee turnover costly to business, dean says

Mississippi's manufacturing firms have their share of employee turnover but could take action to alleviate the costly problem, says Dr. Randy Boxx, associate dean of the School of Business Administration at The University of Mississippi.

The average turnover rate of the state's manufacturing firms is 19.67 percent, Dr. Boxx reported, although rates ranged from less than 2 percent to 170 percent. His figures are based on a survey of plant managers for all manufacturing firms in Mississippi that employ more than 200 people.

He published the results in a monograph, "Employee Turnover in Mississippi Manufacturing Firms," that has been published by the Bureau of Business and Economic Research and the School of Business Administration at Ole Miss.

"Turnover can be beneficial by bringing in new blood and by providing growing industries with additional labor," Dr. Boxx commented. "Excessive turnover, however, results in burdensome costs for the firm in terms of money and human values. Management needs to be aware of the costs and causes of excessive turnover, and to take measures to keep the rate within reasonable limits."

A firm that wants to reduce its turnover rate should commit its management to attacking problems that cause or influence turnover, Dr. Boxx said.

Survey respondents identified four reasons that determine whether turnover is a problem, he explained. "Those factors are wages and benefits, working conditions, management-employee relations and training/development programs. They increase turnover if they are not properly administered or nonexistent, and decrease turnover if they are properly administered."

Dr. Boxx recommended that management increase wages, improve working conditions and provide training and development programs. "On the other hand, management should also be aware of the costs of excessive turnover, which include the cost of recruiting, hiring, training and the loss of productivity during the learning curve of new employees."

Effective employee selection procedures, as well as employee training-orientation programs. Also, he suggested that employees who leave voluntarily be interviewed for their reasons, so management can identify and correct any problem areas.

The study did not reveal any new factors that influence turnover.

"According to our findings, turnover is closely associated with the firm's product and with other factors that have a direct impact on the individual employee," Dr. Boxx explained.

"We found that there is no single cause of this costly turnover problem, but a combination of inter-related factors. Wage rate, sex, race, skill level, education and working conditions are all factors linked to product that have a significant effect on turnover."

The product manufactured by a firm strongly influences the types of employees it hires and therefore affects its turnover rate, Dr. Boxx said. Results of his survey show industries with high turnover rates to include apparel (49 percent), lumber (40 percent), food (36 percent) and textile (100 percent).

Industries with turnover rates of less than 10 percent include those producing transportation equipment, electrical machinery, petroleum, rubber and chemicals.

Employees most likely to leave a firm appear to be those who have been in the job less than three months, receive low wages, are semi-skilled or are female, Dr. Boxx noted. "Employee compensation is especially important," he said, "some 70 percent of the surveyed firms reported that turnover is a problem when wage rates are less than $4 per hour."

CHAOS—Noel Dyson, 40, the well-intentioned housekeeper for Patrick Carlin, a divorced writer, is in a constant state of agitation over his two teen-aged daughters in "Father Dear Father." The British comedy series can be seen at 8 p.m. Saturdays, beginning February 27, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

News Brief

LOST POW—The Veterans Administration is trying to locate 57,000 former prisoners of war who were potentially eligible for important new medical benefits. POWs are encouraged to contact the nearest VA regional office for all the details.

REASON FOR CHANGING—The reason for changing the name of the Mississippi ETV Network is to better reflect the network's programming, which includes a wide variety of educational and cultural programs.

For Simone Signoret, wrinkles are both allies and alibis. "Alibis," she says, for her lack of discipline and "allies" that have helped her change roles. She's played every part from sensual street-walker and embittered prostitute to impassioned working girl and intimated older woman. As the decades progressed, maturity on screen developed a change. Simone welcomed more than feared. Judith Crist called her "the eternal Eve," but of her age Signoret claims: "Whether it's out of pride or laziness, I am comfortable with myself as I am." Simone Signoret's most recent role is in I Sent a Letter to My Love, an HBO feature this month.

After several film triumphs — Blume in Love with George Segal and Cinderella Liberty with James Caan, which brought her an Academy Award nomination — Marsha Mason came back to New York to audition for a play, fell in love with the author, Neil Simon, and married him. The courtship took all of three weeks... and it changed her life's focus forever. See Marsha Mason in her acclaimed performance in the story of the Mason/Simon romance, Chapter Two, this month on HBO.

OUR SHOPPING CENTER WAVELAND

I picked a terrible time to be under the weather this past week as it caused me to miss the Nereids Parade Sunday. In talking with several of the members of Nereids, I was told there probably were more persons viewing the parade this year than in its history along the new route.

One Nereids krewe member said she really did not like the route along the highway, especially since it eliminated many of her "water holes" which were along the old route in downtown Waveland.

There probably will be talk for many years about the route change. However, we feel in the long run the move is in the best interest of all concerned.

We have only three more days to enjoy Mardi Gras 1982.

The Annual Pass Christian Parade will get underway at 2 p.m. this afternoon in addition to the Pearlington Parade at the same time.

The Krewe of Real People covorts in Bay St. Louis Tuesday morning and King Triton will roll down US-90 from Waveland to Bay St. Louis Tuesday afternoon in a climax to the Mardi Gras Season.

We have been told police will enforce new safety measures for the Triton parade in keeping the viewers from the roadways.

We hope everyone will cooperate with police and will really enjoy themselves at the parades.

And to everyone, we wish a Happy Mardi Gras.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics
By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

It keeps seeing the same little ads over and over—some for years in the newspapers. Don't these people ever give up? What's your idea?

Dear WYI: From your question I take it that you assume the little ads don't work.

But the very fact that they keep running bears testimony that they produce some prospects.

Otherwise you could be sure the ads would be changed or canceled.

Like the big space buyers these advertisers have found that consistent promotion is as important as display. Not having the resources or volume of business to support a big space frequently they opt for a smaller space in every issue.

Another angle on your question is the fact that you noticed the ads. Not only that, you also recognized the ones that have been running for some time.

So if you were a prospect for the advertised goods, a sale could have resulted.

Still another aspect of the small space ad is that regularly, many times subconsciously, to the message.

All of us have experienced the realization that a need becomes manifest. Of having seen an ad or notice relating to the newly recognized need.

Sometimes we are fortunate enough to find the almost remembered notice, and the odds of doing so are much better if the ad is run frequently.

So the small space advertisers may be planting seeds of an indefinite gestation—awaiting a realization of need by a previous reader before it begins to sprout.

No, these small advertisers aren't wasting their money. They are letting you know in every issue that they are in business. And they are also alerting new readers to their existence.

All too often a so-called businessman will promote his new operation for a month or two, and then assume everyone knows about him and won't forget. Not only is such thinking the height of conceit and egotism—it is also an absurdly poor and often fatal business attitude.

Send questions or comments to S. Gale Denley, Associate Professor, Department of Journalism, University of Mississippi, Miss. 38677.

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT

The Senate has been engaged in debate of a resolution to allow television and radio broadcasts of our floor proceedings.

This question has sharply divided the membership of the Senate, because it involves such a fundamental change in the tradition and customs of the body.

Personally, I favor broadcasts of Senate proceedings. I am convinced it would better inform the American people of the activities of one of its most important government institutions.

If in my belief that such broadcasts would enhance, along the public awareness of the issues and questions that must be resolved by Congress, and it would lead to a better understanding of the performance of individual Senators.

Also, as the more informed public will be able to see the more actively in the process of the legislative process.

One of the major reasons for the passage of the House of Representatives bill, there have been promising prospects of passage in the Senate.

inspire renewed interest in our national government. For many people, it would be an important educational experience; for without it, they probably would never have the opportunity to actually come to Washington and watch our sessions in person.

I firmly believe the dignity and tradition which has made the Senate unique among legislative bodies in the world can best be maintained over time with modern technologies afforded by live radio and TV broadcasts.

The communications developments of recent years which enable the transmission of such information by satellite around the globe in minutes, and which enable the viewing of such information on television, are a major step forward in the process of government.

Dear Editor:
I would like to make my comments about the dogs that are being poisoned in my trailer park. The dogs in the last four years have been poisoned at all stages of their life. I have a puppy on a leash outside my trailer and it was poisoned. They came in my yard and gave him something with poison on it.

When we found out what was wrong with him, it was too late for anything to be done but watch him lay and die.

Dear Sir:
I have just recently moved back to Hancock County and find it very frustrating that the high school children in this area (Lakeshore, Pearlington, Clermont Harbor, etc.) have to ride as far as Hancock North Central High School to attend classes.

You would think with the many new shopping centers in the drawing boards we would see some progress towards planning a new high school in the south Hancock County area.

Dear Sir:
It is with grateful appreciation that my family and I commend you on your fine law enforcement officials in Hancock County and Bay St. Louis. On Friday, Jan. 15, we were traveling on our way to New Orleans when our car broke down from the nearest exit.

It was approximately 2 a.m. and we were traveling with our two small children.

The next morning after he finished his shift, Officer Dorsey took us to the Bay Waveland Auto Parts Store to get the necessary parts.

About an hour later, a patrol car from the Hancock County Sheriff's Office came by and after ascertaining our predicament, gave us a ride to a doughnut shop in Bay St. Louis.

Our heartfelt thanks and commendations go out towards your law enforcement officials and local business people.

There, Officer Watts spoke with Officer Dorsey of the Bay St. Louis Police Department to see if we could go to the police station where the children could sleep on a couple of couches.

Gulf View Haven fire possibility cited at hearing

Health Care Commission charged Monday with a decision headed that Gulf View Haven nursing home may have been involved in a fire that killed a patient and injured others.

Billy Simmons, chairman of the Mississippi Health Care Commission, said he was "deeply concerned" about the possibility of a fire at the nursing home, which is located in Ocean Springs.

Simmons said the commission will hold a public hearing on the matter on March 15 at the Hattiesburg, Jackson, Greenville, 1-467-2669.

Following the hearing, Simmons said he will recommend to the commission whether the physical conditions of the home, especially electrical wiring, make the outbreak of fire a real possibility.

In addition, Simmons said the commission will also look into the possibility of a fire at the home.

Simmons said the commission will also look into the possibility of a fire at the home.

Gulf View Haven, located on the corner of Beach Road and Highway 90, has been under investigation since a fire broke out in the building on Jan. 15, 1981. The fire killed a patient and injured others.

The commission said it will hold a public hearing on the matter on March 15 at the Hattiesburg, Jackson, Greenville, 1-467-2669.

Simmons said the commission will also look into the possibility of a fire at the home.

Powerlifters set 14 state records

Powerlifters at the 13th Annual Mississippi Invitational Championships conducted at St. Stanislaus last weekend walked away from the event after breaking 14 state records - a Masters record, an American record and a teenage World Record.

Some 35 lifters from five states entered the competition which drew some 300 spectators to the Brother Peter Memorial Gymnasium.

Brother Bennett, who directed the meet, noted some fantastic lifting was witnessed by all.

While fans crowded the bleachers to watch the competition, other powerlifters warmed up in a separate room from the gym where closed circuit color television monitored activities outside.

The coveted Team Trophy was won by Thunder Powerlifting Club of Pascagoula.

Best lifter award in the light weight division went to 160 pounder Davy Davis of Thunder.

Davis totaled 1381 pounds in three lifts including the squat, bench press and dead lift.

Best lifter in the heavy weight class was won by Vinson Keyhoe, a 181 pounder who represented Rhodes Memorial Gymnasium.

Keyhoe totaled 1785 pounds in the three lifts and set three state records.

Nineteen-year-old Andre Villars of New Orleans set a new Teenage World Record squat of 330 pounds.

Villars was in the 186 pound class and represented Fitness Systems of New Orleans.

Joe Laddner of Pascagoula broke a new American record in the 186 pound division.

Laddner bench pressed 451 pounds and set a new state record in the deadlift and squat.

In the 225 pound class four new state records were set across the board by Larry Plumlee of Thunder Powerlifting Club.

Dan Lott, a 275 pounder of Sumrall, Miss., posted three new state records.

Dr. Donn Martin, a super heavy weight from Jackson, Miss., chalked up a new deadlift state record.

Karl Francis, 342 pounds of Hattiesburg, set a new Masters record bench press of 418 pounds.

According to regulations, all meet records are kept in kilos. To change kilos to pounds, multiply by 2.2.

NEW STATE RECORDS - Dan Lott, a 275 pound powerlifter from Sumrall, Miss., recently broke three state records at the Mississippi Invitational Championships in the Brother Peter Memorial Gymnasium in Bay St. Louis. Lott lifted 387 pounds in the squat competition, and dead lifted 550 pounds for new state records in both events. A combined total of these lifts plus a 449 pound bench press succeeded in breaking the overall total weight record with 1387 pounds. Lott, above, is lifting in a previous championship at St. Stanislaus.

DAR celebrates American History Month

At the request of Mrs. William H. Noel, Kentucky State Chairman of Americanism, in 1952 the Governor of Kentucky proclaimed February as American History Month.

In 1974 the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution authorized the American History Month Committee with the historian general as the national chairman.

Many activities are designed to promote the observance of February as American History Month, and to help preserve our freedom by stimulating a great and deeper understanding of American History.

The American History Essay contest is conducted in all schools that wish to participate for the fifth through eighth grades.

This year the Gulf Coast Chapter, MSDAR, received 90 essays from three schools: St. Paul's, Christ Episcopal Day School, and Coast Episcopal High School.

Final judging of the entries was held on January 6 and the winning essays for each grade were submitted to the state competition.

Winners on the local level are Peter Neely, fifth grade, Christ Episcopal Day School, Bay St. Louis; Frank Williams Burdette, sixth grade, also from Christ Episcopal; the seventh grade winner, Marlin Meschly, Coast Episcopal High School, Pass Christian; and the Coast Episcopal High School student Connie Lambert was the eighth grade winner.

All essays receive certificates of appreciation and the winners are presented certificates of award.

Juliened Celery Makes Different Chef's Salad
The fresh, crisp, cold and crunchy Juliened celery makes a difference in chef's salad. It adds a new dimension to the salad and makes it more appealing. The Juliened celery is made by cutting the celery into thin, uniform strips. This makes it easy to eat and adds a nice texture to the salad.
